Overview

Dear Colleagues

Clinical decisions in the management of Low-Grade Gliomas are a challenging area of Neuro oncology. There is much debate among experts as to the best timing for surgical and oncological interventions.

New treatment modalities are also on the horizon. In this meeting we will cover all these aspects of the management of Low-Grade Gliomas, as well as exploring the impact these tumours have on the daily lives of our patients with particular focus on the neuropsychological effects, and on seizure management.

The conference is open to all healthcare professionals involved in the challenges of caring for patients with Low-Grade Gliomas, including and in particular, clinicians, senior nurses and therapy radiographers.

We would like to welcome you and hope to see you in March 2023.
